Introduction: CHME Society's Dr. Moonje Institute of Management & Computer Studies, Nashik Organized Outbound Programme on dated 12 April 2023 to 18 April 2023 in Shimla, Kullu & Manali, Himachal Pradesh.

Travelling is a component of education for younger people whereas it is a component of life experience of peoples by Francis Bacon. We, the professor at MBA & MCA department, felt the need to arrange an outbound programme in order to help the students comprehend the difficulties involved.

Date of Activity: 12 April 2023 to 18 April 2023

Activity Coordinators Names:-

- 1) Dr.Niraj Chauudhari
- 2) Prof.Hema Darne
- 3) Mr.Kiran Kharde

Aim/Objectives of Event:-

- To increased self-awareness
- To developing leadership and teamwork skills
- To enhancing problem-solving abilities
- To building self-confidence and resilience
- To providing exposure to different cultures and perspectives
- To fostering networking opportunities

Overall, the objective of an outbound program is to provide students with a holistic learning experience that goes beyond the traditional classroom setting, and helps them to develop the skills, knowledge, and perspective needed to succeed in the business world.

Beneficiary to: MBA & MCA Students

Total Participants: 27

Impacts /Outcomes of Activity:

- Outbound programs often involve interactions with industry experts and other professionals, providing students with valuable networking opportunities that can help them to build connections and advance their careers.
- Group activities and exercises that require students to work together to achieve a common goal. This helps them to develop their leadership and teamwork skills, which are essential in the business world
- The challenges and obstacles presented during outbound programs can help students to think creatively and develop their problem-solving abilities.
- Providing students with the opportunity to experience different cultures and perspectives. This can broaden their understanding of the global business environment and help them to develop a more nuanced worldview.
- Outbound programs can be physically and mentally demanding, requiring students to push themselves beyond their comfort zones. This can help them to build self-confidence and resilience, which are important qualities for success in any field

Resources: List of Attended 27 Students & 3 Staff Members

Problems Identified:

One problem that can arise in outbound programs of colleges is the potential for physical and emotional risks to participants. Some outbound programs involve activities that can be physically and mentally challenging, such as outdoor adventure activities, simulations, and team-building exercises. While these activities can be valuable learning experiences, they can also pose risks to participants if proper safety measures are not in place. Additionally, some participants may not feel comfortable with certain activities or may experience emotional or psychological challenges during the program.

Another potential problem is the cost of outbound programs, which can be significant. The cost of travel, accommodation, and program fees can be a barrier to participation for some students, particularly those from disadvantaged backgrounds. This can limit the diversity of participants and prevent some students from accessing the benefits of outbound programs.

Finally, outbound programs may not always align with the individual learning needs and goals of participants. While the programs may be designed to provide a broad range of learning experiences, some students may not find certain activities relevant or may have already gained experience in those areas.

D] Understanding Administration of Social security provision:

→ Social security is an applied subject. It was developed to meet the needs of people who would be working in the public services. Social administration is the area of the field concerned with the practicalities of services.

The public services are not directly equivalent to the "public sector". The public sector generally refers to organisations which are controlled directly by government nationalised industries & the organs of government itself. The public services include state, voluntary & mutual organisations which have public objectives. They have four main characteristics.

They are services, offering facilities directly to people.

They are public, in the sense that they are guided by policy.

They are redistributive because the people who pay are not the people who benefit.

They are operated as a trust.
The first duty of trustee is to the body establishing the trust.
And also arguments against are:

Economic efficiency: state provision does not have clear incentives to reduced unit costs.

Clientelism, state provision can be the source of patronage or corruption.

EJ Understanding administration of Welfare provisions.

For some, the idea of the 'welfare state' means the same as 'state welfare', and opposition is seen as a commitment to the 'private market'. This is a false choice. The state is not the only provider of welfare in any country, and the private market does not consist of activity for profit, but a wide range of different motivations. There is a 'mixed economy of welfare'!

The state does not operate in isolation, rather it acts in conjunction with a number of non-statutory organisations. The state is actively involved in regulation, finance or subsidy & direct provision.

If poor people cannot afford services, we can give them the money to decide for themselves as we do with food & clothing there does not have to be a publicly provided services.

Beyond market Failure there is a simple problem with market provision. market give choices to producers as well as consumers.

Market Failure - market do not works if people do not have choice were there are monopolies and if people do not bear the cost of their actions themselves.

Social preferences - market responds to individual preferences social needs may be different.

My first time was in Shramanubhav Shibir. The concept of Shramanubhav Shibir was only heard till date. It was a real experience in these two days. Going to a tribal village and experiencing the culture and lifestyle of those people. Overall the experience was great. It was also a pleasure to do something new.

Under this initiative we truly understood the difference between nature and human beings. We can try to create jobs for the people living in these areas by implementing new initiatives for the people. The technology of modern farm machinery can help to reach the people there. In this program, we got to see the thoughts and feelings of the people of the tribal areas of the population and their feelings of compassion and affection.

Priyanka Joshi

I had never been to a village before, so I was unfamiliar with the atmosphere and how it was there. But because of the Shramanubhav Shibir I was able to get a different experience. This camp brought a lot of new things to learn and new people to meet. This unique experience will always be remembered.

Tejas Dive

We worked very well with the team. Loved the kirtan of the night. We got to see their culture. The overall experience was very good and great.

REPORT ON SEVA VASTI SURVEY IN NASHIK CITY

Activity Name:

1. Seva Vasti Survey- 19th January 2023

Name of the Organization: Dr. Moonje Institute of Management & Computer Studies

Introduction:

India is home to some of the largest slums in the world, and as a result, faces a range of problems associated with these areas. A slum is a highly populated urban area where residents often live in poverty, lacking basic necessities such as access to clean water, sanitation, and housing. Slums are typically characterized by overcrowding, inadequate housing, and poor living conditions.

Some of the major problems associated with slums include:

- Health issues: Slums are often overcrowded, and lack proper sanitation and hygiene facilities, leading to the spread of diseases such as cholera, typhoid, and dysentery. Poor nutrition and lack of access to healthcare also contribute to high rates of infant mortality and malnutrition.
- Crime and violence: Due to poverty and a lack of economic opportunities, crime rates in slums tend to be high. Violence, drug abuse, and gang activity are also common problems.
- Limited access to education: Children in slums often lack access to quality education, which perpetuates the cycle of poverty and limits their future opportunities.
- Environmental hazards: Slums often lack basic infrastructure such as waste management systems, leading to environmental pollution and health risks.
- Social exclusion: Slum residents often face discrimination and social exclusion, which can limit their access to basic services and opportunities.

Addressing these problems requires a multi-pronged approach that involves improving basic infrastructure, providing access to education and healthcare, and promoting economic opportunities and social inclusion.

Seva Vasti Work of CHME's Dr.Moonje Institute of Management and Computer Studies

The Dr. Moonje Institute focuses on community development for underprivileged and marginalized communities. One of their key initiatives is Seva Vasti work, which involves providing essential services and support to individuals living in slums. Through its Seva Vasti work, the Dr. Moonje Institute aims to improve the living conditions of slum residents and empower them to create a better future for themselves and their families.

Some of the activities undertaken as part of the slum work program include:

- Providing basic healthcare services: The Dr. Moonje Institute conducts regular medical camps for slum areas to provide essential healthcare services such as check-ups, vaccinations, and treatment for common illnesses.
- Providing vocational training: The organization offers vocational training programs to help slum residents acquire skills that can improve their employability and economic prospects.

Overall, the Seva vasti work of the Dr. Moonje Institute is aimed at empowering slum residents to take charge of their lives and break the cycle of poverty and deprivation that often characterizes life in slum areas.

Why Nashik City for Seva Vasti Survey:

Nashik is a city in the state of Maharashtra, India, and is home to several slum settlements. According to the 2011 Census of India, the city of Nashik had a population of over 1.5 million, with around 14% of the population living in slums. This means that there were approximately 210,000 slum dwellers in Nashik at that time.

The slums in Nashik face a range of problems, including poor living conditions, lack of access to basic services, and limited economic opportunities. However, efforts have been made to improve the situation in these areas, including initiatives to provide access to clean water, sanitation, and healthcare, as well as programs to promote education and livelihoods.

It was a Survey in Nashik Vasti area named as "Seva Vasti" Which was done by the Dr. Moonje Institute students of MBA and MCA. DMI youth utilize their time to understand the problems and limitation faced by the people in the slum area by communicating with the people. Selected Review of Literature:

Slums have been a persistent challenge for India's urban areas, with a large and growing proportion of the population residing in these areas. According to a study by the National Sample Survey Organization (NSSO) (2012), over 65 million people in India live in slums, with the majority of them concentrated in the cities of Mumbai, Delhi, Kolkata, and Chennai.

Studies have identified a range of challenges associated with slums in India, including poor living conditions, lack of access to basic services, and limited economic opportunities. For example, a study by Bhalla and Singh (2016) found that slum households in Delhi had inadequate access to clean drinking water, sanitation, and healthcare services. Similarly, a study by Patel and Chatterjee (2015) found that slum dwellers in Ahmedabad faced challenges in accessing education and job opportunities.

Moreover, slums in India are also characterized by high levels of vulnerability, particularly for women, children, and the elderly. Studies have highlighted the risks of violence, exploitation, and poor health outcomes in slums, particularly for women and children (Kumar and Sinha, 2017; Nair and Thomas, 2019). Similarly, studies have identified the challenges faced by elderly residents of slums, including poor access to healthcare and limited social protection (Sengupta et al., 2016).

Overall, the literature on slums in India highlights the need for policies and interventions that address the complex challenges facing residents of these areas. This includes improving access to basic services such as water, sanitation, and healthcare, as well as addressing the underlying economic and social factors that contribute to the persistence of slums in urban areas.

Challenges for Seva Vasti Survey:

Conducting surveys in slums can be challenging due to a variety of factors, including:

- Security concerns: Many slum areas found to be unsafe, making it difficult for surveyors to operate. Violence, theft, and other criminal activities may put the safety of the surveyors at risk.
- Limited infrastructure: Slums are often characterized by a lack of basic infrastructure, such as roads, water supply, and sanitation facilities. This can make it difficult for surveyors to access the area and collect data.
- Language barriers: Surveyors may face difficulties in communicating with slum residents who may speak a different language or dialect.
- Social stigma: Some slum residents may be hesitant to participate in surveys due to the stigma attached to living in a slum. They may fear being judged or discriminated against.
- Privacy concerns: Slum residents may be wary of sharing personal information with surveyors, particularly if they are not familiar with them. This can make it difficult to collect accurate data.
- Mobility challenges: Slums are often densely populated and may be difficult to navigate, which can make it challenging for surveyors to reach all parts of the area.
- Political factors: Surveyors may face political challenges in gaining access to slum areas, particularly if there are political tensions or if the area is controlled by a particular group or organization.

The absence of libraries in the area may also have implications for access to information and resources for the community.

- There are several reasons why slums are often located on public open spaces, drainage sides, or river banks:
- Lack of affordable housing: One of the main reasons slums form is due to the lack of affordable housing options for low-income individuals and families. As a result, people may be forced to settle in informal settlements on public open spaces, drainage sides, or river banks.
- Availability of land: Public open spaces, drainage sides, and river banks may be seen as available and unused land, making them a potential option for slum dwellers who need a place to live.
- Informal land use: In many cases, informal settlements develop due to the informal land use practices of the community. This can involve occupying land that is not designated for residential purposes, such as public open spaces, drainage sides, or river banks.

- Lack of government oversight: Governments may not have the resources or political will to regulate land use and housing in certain areas, allowing informal settlements to form and persist.
- Proximity to employment opportunities: In some cases, slums may form on the outskirts of urban areas or near industrial zones, providing easy access to employment opportunities for residents who may not be able to afford housing in more central areas.

Overall, the location of slums on public open spaces, drainage sides, or river banks is a complex issue that involves a variety of factors related to housing affordability, land use practices, government oversight, and economic opportunities. Addressing this issue requires a multi-faceted approach that involves improving access to affordable housing, regulating land use practices, and supporting economic growth and development in affected areas.

6. School Information:

Education and Challenges in SLUM:

- Poverty: Poverty is a major barrier to education in slums, as families often cannot afford the costs of school fees, uniforms, and books.

- Inadequate Infrastructure: Many schools in slums lack basic infrastructure such as classrooms, libraries, and sanitation facilities. This can make it difficult for children to learn and can also create health hazards.
- Quality of Education: The quality of education in many slums is often poor, with untrained teachers, overcrowded classrooms, and inadequate resources. This can lead to low levels of learning achievement and can limit opportunities for children in the future.
- Social Barriers: Discrimination and social exclusion can also limit access to education for children in slums. Girls, children with disabilities, and children from marginalized communities are often particularly affected.
- Child Labor: Many children living in slums are forced to work to support their families, which can prevent them from attending school.

7. Garbage Collector come regularly:

Sr.No.	Garbage Facility	Total Numbers
1	Yes	47
2	No	08

Interpretation:

The data indicates that a significant number of locations have garbage facilities available, which may indicate a focus on cleanliness and sanitation in the area. The absence of garbage facilities in some locations may have implications for waste management and environmental health in the community.

Health and Challenges at slum:

- Poor sanitation: Slums often lack basic sanitation facilities, such as toilets and waste management systems. This can lead to the spread of diseases such as cholera, typhoid, and diarrhea.

- Contaminated water: Lack of access to clean water is another major health challenge in slums. Residents often have to rely on contaminated water sources, which can lead to waterborne illnesses.
- Air pollution: Air pollution is a significant health hazard in many slums, due to factors such as traffic congestion, industrial pollution, and indoor cooking with solid fuels. This can lead to respiratory diseases such as asthma and chronic obstructive pulmonary disease (COPD).
- Malnutrition: Poor nutrition is a common problem in slums, due to limited access to healthy food and lack of knowledge about proper nutrition. This can lead to stunted growth, underweight, and other health problems.
- Infectious diseases: Infectious diseases such as tuberculosis and HIV/AIDS are more prevalent in slums, due to factors such as overcrowding and lack of access to healthcare.

8. Sewage Chamber Facility:

Sr.No.	Sewage Chamber Facility	Total Numbers
1	Yes	43
2	No	12

Interpretation:

However, the data indicates that a significant number of locations have sewage chamber facilities available, which may indicate a focus on sanitation and public health in the area. The absence of sewage chamber facilities in some locations may have implications for waste management and environmental health in the community.

9. Diseases Found in Vastis:

Sr.No.	Diseases Type	Total Numbers
1	Dengue	22
2	Diabetes	08
3	Cancer	01
4	BP	11
5	Arthritis	06
6	Others	07

Interpretation:

However, the data suggests that Dengue and BP are relatively common in the area, while Cancer is less prevalent. The presence of cases of chronic conditions such as Diabetes and Arthritis may have implications for healthcare and support services in the community. Further information would be needed to draw any conclusions about the prevalence or incidence rates of these diseases in the area.

Diseases commonly found in slum areas can be caused by a variety of factors, including poor sanitation, overcrowding, lack of access to healthcare, and exposure to environmental pollutants. Some of the most common diseases found in slum areas include:

- Dengue fever: This is a mosquito-borne viral disease that can cause high fever, severe headache, joint and muscle pain, and in severe cases, bleeding and shock.
- Diabetes: This is a chronic condition that affects how the body processes blood sugar. It can cause a range of complications, including nerve damage, kidney disease, and vision problems.
- Cancer: Certain types of cancer may be more prevalent in slum areas due to exposure to environmental pollutants and other risk factors.

Health camps are often organized in slum areas to address the healthcare needs of the residents who may not have access to regular healthcare services due to factors such as poverty, lack of transportation, or inadequate healthcare infrastructure in the area. Some of the reasons why health camps are needed in slum areas include:

- Lack of healthcare facilities: Slum areas may have limited healthcare facilities or may lack healthcare facilities altogether. Health camps can provide essential medical services to the residents who otherwise may not have access to them.
- Prevention of diseases: Health camps can help prevent the spread of diseases by providing vaccinations, health education, and screening for diseases.
- Early detection of diseases: Health camps can also help in early detection of diseases, which can improve the chances of successful treatment.
- Increased awareness: Health camps can increase awareness among slum residents about the importance of good health practices, disease prevention, and regular check-ups.
- Access to specialized care: Health camps may also provide access to specialized care, such as eye care or dental care, which may not be available in the area.

Overall, health camps can play a crucial role in improving the health outcomes of slum residents by providing them with essential medical services, education, and support to prevent and manage various health issues.

11. People Addictions:

Sr.No.	Addictions Type	Total Numbers
1	Alcohol	26
2	Misry	07
3	Tobacco	16
4	Cigarettes	04
5	Addresses	02

Interpretation:

According to the data suggests that alcohol and tobacco addictions are relatively common in the area, while Misry addiction appears to be less prevalent. The presence of cases of addiction to "Addresses" may indicate a need for additional research or investigation to better understand this type of addiction and its impact on the community. It is also important to note that addiction is a complex issue with many factors, and the data presented here may not provide a comprehensive understanding of the scope or nature of addiction in the area Challenges.

Addictions of various habits of drugs:

- Alcohol: Alcohol addiction is a common problem in slums, as it is often easily accessible and used as a coping mechanism for dealing with the stresses of poverty and social exclusion.
- Tobacco: Tobacco addiction is also prevalent in slums, with many residents using cigarettes and other tobacco products as a means of relaxation and socializing.
- Cannabis: Cannabis addiction is becoming increasingly common in slums, due in part to changing cultural attitudes towards the drug and its perceived medicinal benefits.
- Opioids: Opioid addiction is a growing concern in slums, as the use of prescription painkillers and illegal drugs such as heroin is on the rise.
- Methamphetamine: Methamphetamine addiction is a serious problem in many slum communities, due to the drug's addictive properties and its relatively low cost.

12. Economic situation of the Vasti:

Sr.No.	Economic Situation	Total Numbers
1	Generally	41
2	Medium	14
3	Great	00

Interpretation:

According to the data suggests that a significant portion of the population may be experiencing economic challenges, as evidenced by the relatively high number of individuals categorized as having a medium economic situation. The absence of any individuals categorized as having a great economic situation may indicate a lack of extreme wealth or income inequality in the area. However, it is difficult to draw firm conclusions about the economic situation of the population in the area.

Crime and contribution of slum:

- Poverty and Inequality: Poverty and inequality are major drivers of crime, and slums are often characterized by high levels of poverty and social exclusion. Lack of access to basic needs and opportunities may drive people to turn to illegal means of income generation.
- Lack of Social Services: Slums often lack basic social services, such as healthcare, education, and security services. This can create an environment where crime thrives, as there may be limited options for individuals to address their grievances or access support.
- Overcrowding and Informal Settlements: Overcrowding and informal settlements can create an environment where crime is easier to commit and harder to detect. This may be due to lack of proper lighting, narrow streets, and inadequate surveillance, which provide cover for criminals.
- Drug Use: Drug use and trafficking are major contributors to crime, and slums are often associated with high levels of drug use due to factors such as poverty and social exclusion.

ENVIRONMENT ANALYSIS

Slums are often characterized by poor environmental conditions, which can have a significant impact on the health and well-being of residents. Here are some environmental factors that can be analyzed when assessing the conditions in a slum:

Water and Sanitation: Lack of access to clean water and sanitation facilities is a major problem in slums. Many residents rely on contaminated water sources, which can lead to the spread of waterborne diseases such as cholera, typhoid, and dysentery. Inadequate sanitation facilities also contribute to the spread of diseases and environmental pollution.

- Air Quality: Air pollution is a major problem in many slums due to factors such as traffic congestion, open burning of waste, and indoor cooking with solid fuels. This can lead to respiratory diseases, such as asthma and chronic obstructive pulmonary disease (COPD).

- Waste Management: Poor waste management is a common problem in slums, with many residents lacking access to proper disposal facilities. This can lead to environmental pollution, as well as health hazards from exposure to hazardous waste.
- Housing Conditions: Many slums are characterized by inadequate housing conditions, such as overcrowding, lack of ventilation, and poor structural quality. This can lead to health problems such as respiratory diseases and injuries from collapsing buildings.
- Green Space: Slums often lack green spaces, such as parks and playgrounds, which can have negative effects on mental health and well-being.

Analyzing these environmental factors in slums can help identify the key areas that need improvement to enhance the living conditions and overall health of residents. Addressing these environmental issues requires a coordinated effort from multiple stakeholders, including government, civil society organizations, and community members.

LIVELIHOOD OPTIONS AND OPPORTUNITIES:

1. Micro-enterprise and small business development: Many slum residents start their own small businesses, such as selling goods or offering services, to generate income and support their families.
2. Vocational training and skills development: Programs that provide training and skills development in areas such as construction, mechanics, or tailoring can help slum residents access better paying jobs and improve their economic prospects.
3. Agriculture and livestock rearing: Some slum communities have access to land for farming and may engage in agriculture or livestock rearing to generate income.
4. Formal employment: While formal employment opportunities may be limited in slums, some residents may be able to secure employment in nearby cities or industries.

SWOT ANALYSIS:

Strengths: Availability of educational facilities, including Anganwadi, kindergarten, and schools Majority of the population lives near a river, which can provide a source of water and livelihood opportunities Availability of healthcare facilities and health camps to address diseases and health concerns Presence of a blood donation camp, indicating a willingness to contribute to the community	Weaknesses: Lack of access to proper sewage and garbage disposal facilities, which can lead to health and sanitation issues High prevalence of addictions, including alcohol, tobacco, Misry, and an unknown substance referred to as "Addresses" Limited access to school facilities for some residents, as indicated by the relatively low number of schools available in the area Relatively high number of cases of dengue fever, which can indicate inadequate sanitation or public health measures

WOMEN IN SLUM:

Women in slums are vulnerable to various forms of violence, exploitation, and discrimination. Some of the reasons why women are vulnerable in slums include:

- Poor living conditions: Women in slums often live in overcrowded and unhygienic conditions, which can increase their risk of health issues such as malnutrition, infections, and other diseases.
- Lack of access to basic amenities: Women in slums often lack access to basic amenities such as clean water, sanitation, and healthcare, which can affect their health and wellbeing.
- Limited education and employment opportunities: Women in slums may have limited access to education and employment opportunities, which can make them financially dependent on men and increase their vulnerability to exploitation.
- Domestic violence: Women in slums are at a higher risk of domestic violence due to various factors such as poverty, alcoholism, and lack of awareness about women's rights.
- Sexual violence: Women in slums are also vulnerable to sexual violence, including rape, harassment, and trafficking, due to various factors such as poverty, lack of education, and lack of law enforcement.

To address the vulnerability of women in slums, it is essential to provide them with access to basic amenities, education, and employment opportunities. It is also crucial to raise awareness about women's rights and provide support services such as counseling and legal aid to survivors of violence. Overall, a comprehensive approach is needed to address the various factors that contribute to the vulnerability of women in slums.

CHILDREN AND ELDERLY PEOPLE VULNERABILITY IN SLUMS

Children and elderly people in slums are also vulnerable to various issues, including:

- Poor living conditions: Children and elderly people in slums often live in overcrowded and unhygienic conditions, which can increase their risk of health issues such as malnutrition, infections, and other diseases.
- Lack of access to basic amenities: Children and elderly people in slums may also lack access to basic amenities such as clean water, sanitation, and healthcare, which can affect their health and wellbeing.
- Limited education and employment opportunities: Children in slums may have limited access to education and employment opportunities, which can affect their future prospects and perpetuate the cycle of poverty. Elderly people may also face age-related issues such as limited mobility and healthcare access.
- Child labor: Children in slums may be forced to work in hazardous conditions to support their families, which can affect their physical and mental development.
- Social exclusion: Elderly people in slums may face social exclusion due to ageism and may not have access to social support networks.

To address the vulnerability of children and elderly people in slums, it is essential to provide them with access to basic amenities such as clean water, sanitation, and healthcare. It is also crucial to provide children with education and employment opportunities and protect them from child labor. Elderly people should also have access to social support networks and healthcare services. Overall, a comprehensive approach is needed to address the various factors that contribute to the vulnerability of children and elderly people in slums.

Conclusion:

- The slum area has both strengths and weaknesses, with access to educational and healthcare facilities, but also issues with sanitation, waste management, and addiction-related health concerns.
- The area has opportunities for improvement, such as expanding education and livelihood opportunities, improving sanitation and waste management infrastructure, and building on the existing community spirit.
- However, there are also threats to the community's well-being, including the risk of disease and negative attitudes towards the slum area and its residents.

Recommendations:

- Improve access to proper sewage and garbage disposal facilities to reduce health and sanitation issues in the area.
- Develop more educational and livelihood opportunities to support lifelong learning and economic growth in the community.
- Increase awareness and support for addiction-related health concerns through community-based programs and initiatives.
- Promote community involvement and engagement to build on the existing community spirit and encourage positive attitudes towards the slum area and its residents.
- Work with local and regional authorities to address the challenges and opportunities in the slum area and support sustainable development and growth.
- Overall, addressing the challenges and opportunities in the slum area will require a multi-faceted approach that involves community members, local authorities, and other stakeholders working together to support positive change and sustainable development.

In order to ensure efficient academic sessions, the institute has classrooms, seminar rooms, meeting rooms, and an auditorium with modern ICT facilities. We routinely upgrade our ICT infrastructure in accordance with SPPU and AICTE standards. Our classrooms and labs also have excellent audiovisual technology. Teaching and learning are enhanced by sound systems, LCD projectors, and Internet/WIFI connections. Students and teachers are able to communicate more effectively with modern classroom infrastructure.
