(B) Activities organized for the SLOW LEARNERS

In the institute, various activities are conducted to support slow learners and help them improve their learning outcomes. These activities are designed to provide additional assistance and personalized attention to students who may require extra support. Here are some common activities conducted for slow learners:

- 1. Remedial classes or extra classes are organized specifically for slow learners. These classes are conducted by subject experts or teachers who provide additional explanations, guidance, and support.
- 2. Individual Counseling Sessions are organized for slow learners. During these sessions subject teachers or mentor teachers work closely with the students to identify their specific learning challenges, provide guidance, and develop strategies to overcome difficulties.
- 3. Extra Notes or Supplementary Materials are provided to slow learners to strengthen their understanding of the subject matter. These resources help slow learners review and revise the topics covered in class at their own pace.
- 4. Home Assignments are given to provide students with the opportunity to practice and apply what they have learned in class. Teachers then review the assignments and provide feedback to help slow learners improve their understanding and skills.
- 5. Book bank is provided to the students for getting more insight about the subject matters apart from the classroom teaching and library hours.
